

Phone Co. Expansion Plans Set

Contemplating the continued rapid growth in all the areas served by its telephone division, California Water & Telephone Co. plans to spend a total of $10,000,000 expanding and improving its facilities, General Manager Peter A. Nenzel announced this week.

Of this amount, $3,500,000 will be spent on outside plant construction. Other major expenditures will be for central office equipment ($2,350,000), and special station apparatus and installations ($2,150,000).

In the Monrovia District, Manager Ralph Dutro announced that the construction budget for the company's Monrovia and Sierra Madre exchanges is expected to reach $1,700,000.

About $725,000 will be spent for central office additions and equipment, lines and trunking additions, and close to $300,000 will be spent for aerial and underground cable additions.

Contemplating the continued growth of industrial operations in the Monrovia District, plus requests for more advanced equipment, the company has earmarked more than $500,000 for PBX and PABX equipment and station apparatus and installations on the customers' premises.

During the past 10 years, California Water & Telephone Co. has spent more than $55,000,000 throughout its telephone districts, expanding and improving facilities to meet the demands for service.

Disgustingly Healthy, Says Medical Man

Sierra Madreans, for reasons not entirely clear, are unusually healthy, according to Robert Smith, a county health officer who works out of the Monrovia center.

Mr. Smith, speaking before members of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday, made the following observations:

Of 1,122 persons who were X-rayed during the last visit of the mobile unit, not one unhealthy person was uncovered. This in itself is most unusual, Mr. Smith said.

Even more remarkable, declared the health officer, rarely are cases of communicable diseases involving Sierra Madreans reported to the Monrovia center. This led Mr. Smith to conclude that residents here take better than average care of themselves and probably have better than average medical facilities.

It's been suggested that the air is purer, but that conclusion is open to considerable doubt judging by the smog infested weather we've had of late.

RECENTLY ELECTED are these new officers, of the Foothill Young Republican Club which includes Sierra Madre, Hastings Ranch and part of Arcadia. From

Merchants to Back Little League Ball

Plans for another season are being made by the Sierra Madre Baseball Association, parent organization of the local Little League and Babe Ruth League.

The Little League diamond in Sierra Vista Park has been improved since last season, with grass and a sprinkler system installed in the outfield. This was done by the Sierra Madre Recreation Commission and the Jim Heasley Memorial Fund, with assistance from the Little League coaching staff.

The Minor League, made up last season of nearly 100 of the younger Little Leaguers, will have a newly constructed field to play on at Sierra Madre School. This will give them two diamonds to use there.

Local merchants are again supporting the boys' baseball program in Sierra Madre. This year's sponsors of Little League teams are:

Braves, Arnold's Hardware and Reoss Market; Yankees, Civic Club; Dodgers, Don Jackson's Men's Wear; Orioles, Royal Drug; Red Sox, Rasmussen's Appliances; Indians, Seven-Up Youth Foundation.

Sponsors of the Little League "Farm" teams—the Minro League—are Ira Fox's Barber Shop, Lange and Lees, Sierra Madre Paint Store, Garland's Dry Goods, Sierra Madre Hardware, Roberts Market and Jim Burke.

Tryouts, which began last Saturday, will continue at 9 a.m. this Saturday, March 14. Boys aged 8 and 9 will report at St. Rita's School, 10-year-olds at Sierra Madre School, and 11- and 12-year-olds at Heasley Field near the new swimming pool. The boys are reminded to bring their parent permission forms with them.

'Elfin Forest' Is Children's Film At Library

A special children's program will be presented at the Sierra Madre Library this Saturday under the sponsorship of the Friends of the Library.

Jack Tice, local ranger, will present the "Elfin Forest," a sound film in color about the plants, flowers, fruits and animal life in the Sierra Madre Mountains.

The film is aimed at children of about 10 years of age and older.

Baseball Star PTA Speaker

Johnny Lindell, sports director for the 7-Up Youth Foundation and former baseball star with the New York Yankees, will be a guest of the PTA here next Monday evening, March 16.

The meeting will start at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Mr. Lindell, who will talk on "Youth in Baseball," attended Monrovia High School and earned 15 letters in basketball, football, track and baseball. He has played in several World Series and also has been a member of the Hollywood All-Stars.

Boys of eight years of age and over should be particularly interested in the program.

The next PTA-sponsored movie will be Saturday, March 21, in the school auditorium. The program will be "The Littlest Outlaw" and "Solid Ivory." Doors open at 1 p.m. and the program ends at 2:55.

Red Cross Fund Drive Hits Climax

About 250 volunteers will be ringing doorbells in behalf of the Sierra Madre Red Cross this week as the campaign reaches the half-way point.

SEE EDITORIAL

The quota for this year, General Chairman Frank Parks pointed out, is $7,700—a little less than $1 for every man, woman and child in the city.

Just a year ago, Mr. Parks recalled, the fund drive failed to produce enough money to meet the budget and there was a possibility the local office would be forced to close. By strict economizing and by drawing on reserves, however, the Red Cross work here has been continued.

There are no reserves left, Mr. Parks said, so it is absolutely necessary to meet the budget.

Volunteers who call at homes when the residents are away will leave letters explaining the need for funds.

"Please do not lay that letter aside and forget about it," said Mrs. Adelaide Miller, executive secretary of the local chapter. "No one knows who will need Red Cross service next. It may be you."

ORCHID HOBBYISTS

San Gabriel Valley Orchid Hobbyists will hold their monthly meeting tonight, instead of the usual third Thursday, in San Marino Woman's Clubhouse, 1300 Huntington Dr., at 8 o'clock.

School Tax Rate Is Restudied

Ways to trim the school budget and thus lower the proposed new tax rate were presented at an adjourned meeting of the Board of Education Monday evening.

The report, presented by the Citizens Advisory Committee for the Study of the Educational Program, went into most aspects of the budget, including the music program, the cafeteria and bus service.

The proposed new tax rate, which will be voted upon May 19, could be reduced to $1.8302 (average over three years) by postponing a planned painting project and by eliminating the music teacher, according to Superintendent Robert E. Walker.

THIS WOULD compare with a tax rate of approximately $1.88 if these two items are included. The override of .1193 is not included in these figures.

The Board of Education, under state law, can attach an added tax, called an override, for specific purposes without a vote of the public. The school's present override helps support a recreation program and pays part of the retirement fee of teachers and classified personnel.

The committee, part of the PTA, also discussed the possibility of eliminating bus service, of hiring a part-time nurse rather than a full-time nurse and of operating the cafeteria on a break-even basis.

WHATEVER average tax rate is decided upon, Mr. Walker pointed out, the figure will not be the same each year.

During 1960-61, for example, the school district will need about $460,000. This means the rate will be higher in the first year, and probably lower in the second and third years.

The School Board will meet again next Monday evening at 7 o'clock to give interested citizens an opportunity to be heard. The amount of the increase must be decided by March 18.

Friends Sponsor Two Top Films Monday Night

Two outstanding films will be shown at the Sierra Madre Theater, sponsored by the Friends of the Library, next Monday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m.

"The Lady From Philadelphia," Edward R. Murrow's documentary on the life of Marian Anderson, will be shown along with "Wherever She Goes," the life of Eileen Joyce, Australian pianist.

Dan Parker is program chairman for the Friends. There will be no admission charge.

Hospital to Observe 2nd Anniversary

The Sierra Madre Hospital will celebrate the second anniversary of its opening on March 17th, the date which coincides with the 82nd birthday of Dr. George W. Groth Sr., who first envisioned the hospital here.

The hospital treated 1,661 patients during 1958. These patients stayed an average of four and one-half days. In addition, 209 babies were born in 1958 and occupied bassinets for an average of three days. A total of 740 major and minor surgeries were performed during the year.

Larry C. Lomax, hospital administrator, said that the hospital has 72 staff doctors representing nearly all the medical, surgical and obstetrical specialties as well as the general family doctors.

The hospital's disaster plan is coordinated with the overall Civil Defense program for this area and thus offers an additional protection to the community in event of disaster or emergency.

There is also a first aid program inspected and applied under the emergency aid plan of the County of Los Angeles.

Residents Pack Council Chambers

Weary city councilmen, beset from all sides by protesting Sierra Madreans, failed once again Tuesday night to adopt several ordinances which have been under discussion for months.

Once again more than 60 residents, including at least four attorneys, packed the Council chambers and protested virtually every item considered. Some progress, however, was made. Action taken includes:

1. The Council authorized the hiring of Simon Elsner and Associates, planning consultants, to make a study of the block bounded by Sierra Madre Blvd., Baldwin, Hermosa and Esperanza with a view toward future development. The cost will not exceed $500.

It appears, judging by a report made to the Council by Sam Perloff, that the problem of acquiring land to build a street between Sierra Madre Blvd. and Esperanza is near a solution.

Mr. Perloff, owner of the Royal Drug Store, has contacted all property owners involved and, by an exchange of land, it now seems possible for the city to build a street 30 feet wide from Baldwin to the First Western Bank parking lot.

The street, as proposed by Mr. Perloff, would run along the south property line of businesses which face on Sierra Madre Blvd. Esperanza residents would not have access to the street. The Council and members of the audience congratulated Mr. Perloff on the job he performed.

2. The Council announced its intention of denying a business license to Bethany Home for Girls at 72 W. Alegría, on the recommendation of the chief of police. A public hearing will be held on the home's application for a license at the next meeting, March 24 at 8:30 p.m.

In his report, Chief Gordon MacMillan said he has contacted some of the home's former staff members, the Board of Directors and others. It appears, according to the report, that all court wards have been taken from the home because of dissension among Board members.

3. The Council denied appeals involving a lot split and relocation permit in the Manzanita - Orange Grove area. The lot split was granted to Arthur M. Moreno at 218-233 Manzanita, and the relocation permit to Jack Fratt.

The Council did, however, adopt Ordinance 620 which changes the lot area requirements in the Manzanita-Orange Grove area from 7,500 square feet to 11,000 square feet.

Residents protesting the lot split and relocation permit were represented by G. Norman Kennedy, while Mr. Moreno made his own appeal. Noren Eaton represented Mr. Fratt.

4. The Council, at the suggestion of Mayor Charles H. James, appointed a three-man committee to continue a study of the cemetery problem.

Members of the committee will be Mr. Kennedy, Herbert Harrison and William Schwartz. Mr. Kennedy helped to draft a proposal for the Coordinating Council which suggests that the city take over the cemetery.

Mr. Harrison, a former councilman, has had extensive experience on cemetery matters, and Mr. Schwartz presently is chairman of the local Cemetery Committee which each year raises funds to maintain the cemetery.

5. The Council approved a plan to have the State Finance Office make a special population estimate. City Administrator Lawrence C. Bevington reported that Sierra Madre probably has grown by 600 since the last census. If true, the city would take in additional revenue from state gas and sales taxes of $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

6. Discussed and adopted for one year the L.A. County Emergency Aid Plan, under which, as reported previously, the city would be assured of ambulance service in accident cases, both at home and in traffic mishaps.

EARLIER in the evening, the Council attempted to pass a health code covering private nursery schools. So many protests were raised, however, that adoption of the proposed code was postponed indefinitely.

The Council did succeed in passing Ordinance 617 governing charitable and religious solicitations, but later in the meeting an attorney, Edward Hume, 214 W. Montecito, protested and demanded the subject be reconsidered.

Mr. Hume launched into a discourse which lasted for about 30 minutes, the gist of which was that the law is vague and subject to various interpretations.

He was supported by Draper Phillips, 528 San Gabriel Ave., also an attorney, and by Mr. Eaton.

Finally, although the Council had previously passed the ordinance, members voted to put it on the agenda for the next meeting and asked residents to submit their views in writing.

THE ORDINANCE governing purchasing procedure, required by state law, was adopted, although Mrs. Grace Vane questioned one part of it and persuaded the Council to attach an additional sentence which would prohibit the city administrator from making "blanket" purchases of more than $500 without Council approval.

This safeguard, however, was in the ordinance in the first place, according to City Attorney Charles Martin.

A Long Way From Teheran . . .

'Persian Goddess' Adopted by Local Family

By Tommy-Ann Miller

A 16-month-old Iranian goddess has been adopted by Baumis and Maudie Raphael, 171 W. Grand View. The baby's name is Elaeah, which means "Persian goddess," and according to the Moslem calendar, she was born in 1336. Elaeah arrived here in late January after a 40-hour plane trip from her birthplace in Teheran, Iran.

The foreign adoption was the culmination of nine months of letter writing, transatlantic cables and occasional heartache for the Raphaels when things got tangled up in immigration red tape.

"But she's worth it!" says Maudie Raphael, who offers to talk to anyone interested in adopting an Iranian baby.

MAUDIE AND BAUMIS Raphael (Baumis owns The Country Shop in Alamanda Park) already have three children of their own: David, 17, a student at Antioch College, Ohio; Bettina, 12, and Toby, 7. Their decision to adopt an Iranian baby girl came after reading a letter from Ellie and Jack Huffman, who were stationed in Teheran with the Near East Foundation.

Ellie Huffman, a social worker, had written the Orange Grove friends (Quakers) that orphanage conditions there were appalling—particularly for girls. Girls, it seems, are not educated and usually end up in the streets. (These streets, incidentally, are freezing in winter and reach daily summertime temperatures of 140 degrees.

"Babies are saddest of all," wrote Mrs. Huffman, "there are about 135 crowded into one large room, partitioned into sections of about 12 to 16 babies each. They either sit in bed or at benches all day long and there are no toys or exercise space."

"There is no real diaper system, which creates a serious health problem. Medical attention is inadequate. The babies are so lacking for love they just stare into space or rock back and forth—some crying."

ELLIE HUFFMAN, herself the mother of four young children, frequently visited the Model Orphanage (run by the United Nations and hence, better than others). She wrote that she was planning on bringing two or three babies home with her in June and would help couples wishing to adopt one.

A lengthy correspondence began between the Raphaels and the Huffmans—who sent pictures and information about various babies. The Raphaels chose Elaeah, whose parents were killed in a train wreck when she was 15 days old.

After intelligence and health checks, the baby girl was released to the Huffmans on Jan. 3. An Army doctor who examined Elaeah said that she was unusually bright and in better than average physical health.

IN THE MEANTIME, Los Angeles Immigration authorities told the Raphaels they would have to be investigated and their home inspected, etc. So the Raphaels turned to the Children's Bureau of International Social Service—a Community Chest sponsored group. (Ordinarily, the California Department of Welfare undertakes the investigation and handling of foreign adoptions, but this year they weren't voted any funds.)

Before the Children's Bureau could get underway, the Huffmans wired they had been suddenly transferred and were flying home with Elaeah, Jan. 28, instead of June as planned. This left the Raphaels only three weeks to complete adoption proceedings. Immigration officials said Elaeah would not be able to come in under quota without a home investigation—and they couldn't seem to speed it up.

Desperate, Baumis Raphael visited the Immigration Department daily, pleading for emergency action. In the final days before the Huffman family and Elaeah were to leave Iran, an investigator visited the Raphael home and gave an enthusiastic "okey."

SINCE ELAEH'S arrival, she's learned to walk and feed herself—and her hunger for food and love is at last being satisfied.

The youngest Raphael children are enchanted with their Iranian sister. Bettina is at an age when she enjoys helping with practical matters like diapering, etc. Toby, who's been displaced as the "baby" of the family, willingly gave her his bedroom.

"It's like watching the unfolding of a flower," say the Raphaels of their little "goddess."

ELAEH, which means Persian goddess in Iranian, gets ready to dig into one of her first American meals. The 16-month-old girl recently was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Baumis Raphael, 171 W. Grandview, and arrived in the United States after a 40-hour plane ride from Teheran.

Why Support Red Cross?

Exhorting citizens to contribute to worthy causes, it seems, does very little good, probably because we are bombarded almost daily with heart-rending missiles aimed at our pocketbooks.

There are, though, some organizations which must be supported, if only for selfish reasons, and the American Red Cross, I believe, is among this group.

THE RED CROSS this week is making its most concentrated drive for funds in Sierra Madre. The total needed is only $7,700—considerably less than $1 from each resident—and it seems an insignificant amount viewed in the light of the accomplishments of the local chapter.

Money raised must not only go to pay the chapter's executive secretary (the only paid officer here), but to support the half-dozen or more activities conducted by the Red Cross in Sierra Madre, including life saving and classes in first aid.

In addition, it costs the Red Cross $5.51 a pint to process and distribute blood and its fractions. This feature of Red Cross activity alone is worth $7,700 to the approximately 9,300 residents of our city, particularly since the demand for blood has increased 10 times in the past decade.

In the Los Angeles area alone, for example, the amount of whole blood distributed by the Red Cross increased from 14,870 pints in 1948 to 139,321 pints in 1958. Furthermore, 1,360 pints were transferred as credits to other blood banks across the country last year and 18,724 were reduced to blood derivatives.

THESE FIGURES show clearly that the need for the services of the Red Cross is growing even faster than the population.

And the only way the Red Cross can meet the demand, the only way, indeed, that it can maintain local chapters such as the one in Sierra Madre, is through your contributions.

So if you believe the Red Cross performs a necessary function in the United States, if you value the work of your local chapter, if you prefer giving voluntarily rather than through compulsory taxes, you should support your Red Cross.—H.W.E.

'We Was Had'

A few weeks ago, the Sierra Madre News carried a story on Page 1 advertising the appearance of one Fred V. Bowers as guest entertainer for the local Kiwanis Club.

The story stated that Mr. Bowers was the author of the songs, "Always," and "Because."

The phone rang Thursday and we were informed by an irate lady that Mr. Bowers was certainly not the author of "Always," since Irving Berlin produced both the lyrics and music. Bowers didn't write "Because," either, the lady told us.

FURTHERMORE, she added, we must be pretty stupid to have printed such a thing. To stupidity, we plead guilty, although the admission doesn't come easily.

It turned out, however, that we weren't as badly flummoxed as we had at first supposed. Mr. Bowers did not indeed write the popular versions of "Always" and "Because." But, as you've probably guessed by now, he composed songs of the same name some dozen years or more before Irving Berlin attached "Always" to his still popular standard and before the well-known version of "Because" was released. (The name of the latter's composer escapes me.)

Not only did Mr. Bowers write a song titled "Always," copyrighted in 1899, he sang it in a reedy, falsetto to us at The News office, accompanied by appropriate gestures and the tapping of feet.

Mr. Bowers is an elderly gentleman, imbued with a fine sense of the old baritone, and is undoubtedly an entertaining performer.

WE WISH Mr. Bowers a continued rich and full life, but the lingering suspicion remains that we were taken. All of which should prove that newspapers are run by people who are sometimes as easily fooled and just as stupid as anybody else, including presidents and kings.

Furthermore, beware of half-truths. Newspapers in obedience to the great journalistic god, Objectivity, print dozens of them.—H.W.E.

Lord of Blarney

Chances are the blarney will be as thick as the shamrocks when the Irish honor St. Patrick on March 17.

But the original "blarney" was an Irish chieftain who proved that you can still win even if you lose.

When the castle of Blarney was besieged by the English, the lord of the manor concluded an armistice with the English commander. According to the research department of The World Book Encyclopedia, he promised to surrender the old homestead to an English garrison in Cork on a certain date.

The Englishman waited politely for the terms of the armistice to be fulfilled . . . and waited . . . and waited.

The Lord of Blarney held him off with promises and flattery, until the commander became the laughing stock of the court of England.

And the name "Blarney" ironically took its place in the "English" language, as a synonym for sweet talk.

Ladies' Night at 'Sunset Alleys'

Around the Square

By Tommy-Ann Miller

Checks amounting to $381.83 slipped out with the trash the other day and were miraculously found before being burned at the Peck Road dumping grounds. It happened this way:

Several checks (made payable to the Sierra Madre News) were in a white envelope atop a desk, awaiting deposit the following day. Someone (don't ask who) knocked them into a wastepaper basket and—

Next morning? a mad scramble—no checks. After the editor called the City Refuse Service and got a pessimistic forecast, he hopped in his car and trailed Trash Truck No. 50 out of town. Hailing it, he explained the predicament and the driver said "Impossible! You'll never find them." HWE followed the truck to the dumpsite anyhow.

There, they tried to estimate just where the News office gatherings would be located in the morning's commercial pick-up. "Hmmm," they decided, "about the middle," and dumped a big pile. No checks. Then they dumped a little pile. "Hold it!" and the Editor, facing mountains of squashed papers, boxes, lettuce leaves, etc. (and it's the et cetera that's hardest to face), stole himself for a four-day search.

But, by the grace of Etoain Shridu, he spied the check-filled envelope within five minutes—lodged in a 20-foot pile. It was slightly wrinkled and damp—but with an aromatic $381.83 still intact. Much relieved, HWE tipped the helpful refuse men and headed for home and the bank deposit window.

SKI SKIN. Wondering why John and Jean Veblen are so tan of face in mid-March? They just returned from a week of skiing at Aspen, Colo. (Confidentially, they're paler below the parka-line).

HARVEY WHEELER, recently transferred to the Street Department (and observed the other noon capably wielding an electric saw in the crotch of a North Baldwin pepper tree), is undoubtedly an asset to that department. But his superior tending of the park will be sorely missed.

For many months, prior to his job change, Harvey kept the Park House facilities tidy-clean and the park grounds beautifully manicured.

NO NEED to panic during the hoverings of two helicopters near the Monastery front acreage, Saturday afternoon—it was on purpose, and not a hare-brained escapade. In fact, the 'copters were carrying Civil Air Patrol officials, Sewall and Lindell Griggers, pilots, and the new Los Angeles County Sheriff, Pete Pitchess.

The helicopter landings were part of a genuine simulated rescue involving the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Helitak Crew. And the entire operation (from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.) was being photographed by a "Times" reporter, who is doing an article for "This Week" magazine (due out in May, probably). Bailly Canyon was the "rescue" scene, with Chris La-

YOUNG SELL REVISITED

Dear Sir:

I am a dumb, stupid, ignorant donkey. I'm doing everything by instinct, just as nature ordained. I'm a bad one, because I don't buy cookies from the Girl Scouts. The only good ones are those who do buy those cookies, as the jabbering radio voice said.

I don't believe in giving anything to the Boy Scouts, either unless they earn it by working for it.

I believe it's stupid to have several dozens of organizations collecting for this and that, when only one unified agency could do it with a lot less waste.

I'm not standardized. I'm an old, plain ornery, stubborn jackass.

Thank you,

What Do
You Think?

The night was hushed in fog. The trees were only ghosts of trees. The stars were lost. But overhead a dim luminosity, like a veiled night light in a nursery, showed that the moon had not been destroyed by rockets but had merely gone into hiding.

The rhythmic murmur of the surf was a lullaby which seemed to have lulled the whole world to sleep and pleasant dreams, which had taken us into a strange realm of mystery and adventure. But the breeze which gently fanned our brows was cool and soft, and whispered things only imagination could hear.

And imagination, the magic carpet so many of us carelessly throw away, was very much awake. From offshore came faint sounds, probably from a fishing boat. My Helpsend peered through the mist but could see nothing.

"The Old Man of the Sea is smoking his peace pipe tonight," she said.

FOG IS ONE of the things we don't appreciate as we should. It does a great deal to refresh vegetation and lower fire hazards. If it weren't for fogs we would have to use a great deal more water than we do. Fogs even make some usually careless drivers drive cautiously. And if it hadn't been for fog, all Californians might now be Britishers instead of citizens of the United States.

Cabrillo claimed California for Spain in 1542, but few of us realize that Spain did not do anything to establish its claim for 227 years after that. On the other hand, Sir Francis Drake landed at Drake's Bay, above San Francisco, only a few years after Cabrillo had seen the land. His crew held the first religious services, other than Indian rites. He named the land Nova Albion and claimed it for England, erecting a post to which was nailed a British coin and, probably, the brass plaque bearing the

South's New Strategy—Do Nothing

By Robert G. Spivack

THE SOUTH'S NEW STRATEGY—There is no doubt that the collapse of "massive resistance" in Virginia was a psychologically damaging blow to diehard Dixiecrats who refuse to recognize that the 20th Century is here.

Their forces are scattered, divided and they are unsure of the smart course to follow. They don't like their "leader," Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas. His studies at Communist-infiltrated Commonwealth College, while many years ago, still leave the veteran segregationists more than a little suspicious of him. Men such as Talmadge and Eastland regard him as a Johnny-come-lately to their ranks.

Despite the confusion in segregationist circles, the determination to fight school integration or enactment of any new civil rights legislation remains firm as ever. But now the segregationists, under the direction of their brainiest strategist, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, are using a new resistance technique.

In many ways it's much harder for the civil rights advocates to brush aside.

ESSENTIALLY it's a plea for time. What's tricky about it is that the Dixiecrats don't explain time "for what." If they wanted ample time to adjust to the Supreme Court school decision, none of the civil rights leaders would stand in the way. But if it's simply time to devise more plans for obstructing the high court's decision, then that's something entirely different.

The Russell plan is to appeal to as many Republicans in both houses of Congress as possible, in the belief they are not really too concerned about civil right unless they happen to come from New York or the East.

The new Southern "line" was laid down by Congressman Richard H. Poff, a Virginia Republican, at the opening session of the current House Judiciary subcommittee hearings on civil rights. He was asking for time—and making it sound like a plea for mercy.

MR. POFF STATES HIS CASE—Congressman Poff's testimony before the civil rights hearings merit critical examination, because it was the reasoned expression of a Southern viewpoint and not the words of a blow-hard.

"I proceed from the premise that it is, or by right should be, the policy of the Congress to foster racial accord," he said. "Stated in the negative, Congress has, or should have, no purpose to incite racial discord."

He then went on to say that no man "willingly submits" to those who gratuitously attempt to impose upon him their own private notions of proper social behavior. . . . Then he closed his prefacing remarks with the observation that "neither this Congress nor any other legislative body can legislate tolerance."

Later he got down to his specific "remedy" for civil rights strife.

"If this premise and these corollaries be valid, then what good cause can be served by new legislation spewed into the anxious atmosphere the South must breathe? Can it change men's hearts? Can it counter-felt tolerance? Can it manufacture human harmony?"

TO THESE rhetorical questions, Poff's answer obviously was "no."

He proceeded to review the situation in Virginia. She "fought honorably" and finally yielded "reluctantly but gracefully and without violence."

In view of this experience, he asked, should there not be a "legislative moratorium" so the South can "bind up our wounds?"

Finally Poff said: "In government as in private life, sometimes the best action is no action at all. . . . This problem, which is only much aggravated by much talk, does not require new legislation. . . . It requires on the part of the Federal government patience, forbearance and self-restraint. Never before has the Congress of the United States had such an opportunity to accomplish so much simply by doing nothing."

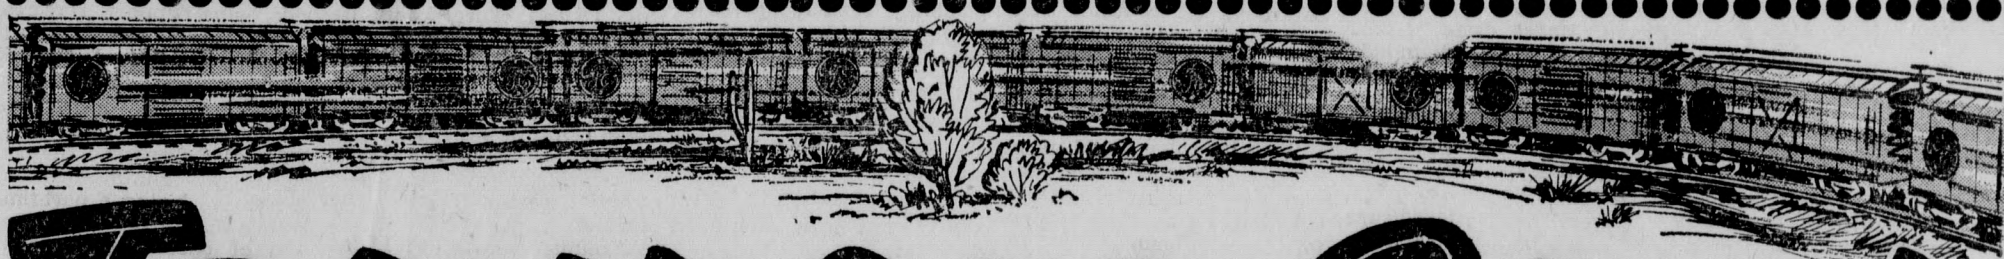

Until you recall that high school students at Little Rock are still locked out and that no moves have been made in Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama and other areas even for token integration, Mr. Poff's argument seems quite persuasive.

Faith Lutheran Receives Nursery Building as Gift

The acquisition of the building formerly occupied by the Murphy Brothers, located on the northeast corner of Rosemead and Foothill Blvds., will increase the Sunday School facilities of Faith Lutheran Church, 835 Hastings Ranch Drive.

The building was moved to the church location last Wednesday morning. It will serve as a nursery during the church service.

"THIS IS a solution to our crowded Sunday School facilities while plans continue for the construction of our new church sanctuary next year," according to Rev. Armin Hesse, pastor.

It proved to be a very agreeable solution for the members of the congregation, for, although a definite price for the structure had been established between the contracting parties, the Murphy Brothers refused to accept payment and made the church a gift of the structure.

Telephones Tell a Story of GROWTH

— indicates net addition per station gained
--- indicates plant investment per station, end of year

Every year rising costs increase the investment required to add new telephones and equipment to our plant. In 1948 we needed $220.41 plant investment for each telephone installed that year. By 1958 costs were $700.52 per telephone, an increase of 217%. During that same ten year period our telephone rates increased only slightly, and in some areas actually decreased.

We feel this great investment is fully justified in the light of community growth in California. Our service must not only keep pace with this rapid growth, it must be ready for you when you need it.

Good earnings for your Telephone Company mean the best in service for you.

Herrica Hartmetz's Work Rewarding to Openminded

By Frode N. Dann
From Cubist and Surrealist periods of art came the techniques of "papier collé" and "collage," now so popular among young American abstract and non-objective painters. Now—as then—the objective is to find new inspiration for variations in texture and design and to liberate the spirit from the shackles of old dogmas.

Herrica Hartmetz practices these techniques with much skill and sincerity. About a dozen of her works are shown this month at the Sierra Madre Library Gallery and they offer a great opportunity to study an intelligent performance in these difficult media.

MRS. HARTMETZ, whose work has long been known from her participation in professional shows of the Southland, has added a great deal of independent search to this approach in combining the pastings with bold brushwork in heavy impasto, scumbling, scraping and glazing.

added for special effect (something that too often happens, much to the detriment of artistic honesty).

In these paintings the abstract and the non-objective mode of expressions are varied with such subtlety that one is hardly aware of the differences. Sensible titles indicate just the sources of inspiration. In the oils there are two distinctly different moods: The subdued, almost veiled, and the clear-cut, sharply focussed design type. Softly spoken and clearly spoken messages.

EXAMPLES of the former: "Monkey as Clown" and "Study for Landscape." And of the latter: "Winter Landscape" and "Judoists at rest."

At the top on my list is "Red Ball on the Beach." This painting emerges as a fusion of the two moods. There is both softness and clarity. The image, though of intricate nature, comes out as one single, solid structure and the background is ideally integrated with it. A similar feat of composition has been accomplished in "Winter Landscape."

Whether or not a person viewing these paintings thinks in abstract terms, it is hard to believe that anyone could fail to sense the serene, sincere effort in this painter's work.

IF THE "naturalist" viewer has an impulse to shrug and pass it up, I would recommend a second look.

Music is heard and painting seen, but there is much more to the enjoyment of these art forms than the recording of physical facts, and the more one opens up to let impressions in, the greater the chance for understanding.

Herrica Hartmetz's work offers many rewards to the openminded spectator.

Men who live on promises have a slim chance of being successful.

The arrow points to the Ad-RIME lines must tie in and rhyme with the Guideline. Your entry MUST carry the "Hidden Slogan." Find it among the ads—one word in each column starting at the left. You don't have to buy anything to win prizes but MUST find and write the hidden Slogan. Preference is given to AD-RIME lines that tie in well and BOOST LOCAL TRADE. Get the swing—the two lines are a "jingle." One which can't win is: Open Wide for You Their Doors, but you must write original ones. Good luck — and keep trying.

Mrs. Colnon Entertains At Shower

Mrs. Arthur B. Colnon, 935 E. Grand View, was hostess at a linen shower honoring Rose Barakat, daughter of Mrs. Ramza Barakat, formerly of Boston, Mass., now making her home in Pasadena, who will marry Arthur Arata April 18.

Mrs. Norman Barakat and Mrs. Thomas Barakat, sisters-in-law of the honoree, presided at the tea table, covered by a pink net cloth and centered by a pink and white cake bearing the names "Rose and Arthur." Pale pink camellias completed the display.

Mrs. Mitchell Sabbagh, sister of the bride-elect, assisted the hostess in greeting Mrs. Barakat, Mrs. Mae Glasshage, Mrs. Howard Bowers, Mrs. Cecil M. Winbiger, Mrs. Mark Markland, Mrs. Angie Casco, Miss Fern Taylor and Miss Minerva Mount.

The benedict-elect's parents will come from St. Louis, Mo., to be in attendance at the wedding, as will another sister of the bride-elect, Mrs. Edward Frank DeFlore of Boston.

The road to success is strewn with the bones of others' failures.

ANNOUNCES

SOMETHING REALLY NEW IN THE ELECTRIC ORGAN ART

"Living Tone"

Since HAMMOND developed the first electric organ 24 years ago, most of the noteworthy advances in the art of organ design have come from their research—the first Spinot organ, the first Chord organ, Reverberation control, Legato pedal, Selective vibrato, and touch-responsive percussion—to name a few.

Now an exciting three-dimensional Living Tone has been created by Hammond's engineers. This development is not just more speakers or more amplification; it is a new invention that gives all models of the popular Hammond an added richness of tone that is thrilling to hear and play.

VILLA
VIEWSBy Toni Maurin
SYcamore 7-9634

Be-gorra it's that time again when all the Irish or partially Irish come unglued and burr their rrs like they just left the old country. I always feel like taking my mixed lineage off somewhere and hiding till the day is through. Why, oh why, I ask myself, couldn't my forefathers had enough sense to have just a wee drop of the green in their veins. Everyone ought to have a little Irish to give that extra twinkle and spice to their lives, and what could be more enchanting than having your favorite leprechaun lurking about to tease you? Well, Happy Saint Patrick's Day to all you lucky people.

THE H. D. WEXELBERGS of Wynn Road are home again after an exciting trip to Chicago. The fact that they are both nursing colds in no way dims the memory of their trip. In addition to having a reunion with many old friends, they visited with Mrs. Wexelberg's 84-year-old father, Dr. P. O. Updike, a retired minister. They were parted from one end of Chicago to the other. While in Chicago Mr. Wexelberg was presented with a gold plaque as founder and president of the Tire and Tube Institute, which is now in its eighth year. From there they went to Oregon, Ill., to visit her sister and her husband. Her sister, Mrs. Helen Rutkowski, is a county judge in Ogle County. Her husband is also a practicing attorney.

FANCY PARTIES are not restricted to the adult world. Donna Haddock, daughter of Mr. J. E. Haddock Jr., threw the lemonade set into a perfect whirl, by having a swimming party for her ninth birthday, on March 3. There were many neighborhood and school friends to indulge in the fun. The party was topped off by not one but two beautiful birthday cakes.

MR. AND MRS. E. Marshall Harris of Sierra Madre Villa are home again from their sojourn up Las Vegas way, a little less affluent, a little wiser, but happy after three wonderful days. They went up with five other couples on the train, and all had adjoining rooms at the Sahara. The other couples were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sahn, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Small, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sahn, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McIntire and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Lober.

MRS. EDWARD DiBias of 1430 Edge Cliff Lane gave a luncheon last week to acquaint some of the neighbors with each other. The two guests of honor were Mrs. William Baugh, who recently moved into their new home, and Mrs. Alfred Allen, who plans to be building on the street soon. The other guests were Mrs. Eldon Osburn, Mrs. Chesley Osburn and Mrs. Sallie Love Bickle. Mr. and Mrs. DiBias are fairly new in this area having just moved into their new home last year. They have two sons, Robert is a graduate of SC and Roy is presently attending Pasadena High School.

Mr. DiBias is a partner in the firm of Lordeth of California, creators of women's sportswear.

MR. AND MRS. Dan Marsh of Claremea Lane had a barbecue party last week for Mr. and Mrs. Don Swarthout, who are visiting from the north. The guests included their son, Maynard Swarthout, who is residing in Sierra Madre, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dietzel and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dietzel.

THE L. T. GRIENERS, also of Claremea are home again after a combined business and pleasure trip to Phoenix. Mrs. Greiner tells me that her daughter has sold her horse recently. Hate to see these young ladies grow up so fast.

MRS. LAURENCE Dietzel of Meyer Loa Lane had a farewell luncheon last week for Mrs. A. A. Nicolaus, who is moving to Billings, Mont., after a little traveling. Her

EVEN A DUFFER could enjoy himself playing bridge like this, but the photo, of course, was posed to advertise the coming Eugene Field PTA Bridge and Canasta Benefit, March 17, in the Sierra Madre Woman's Clubhouse. More than 100 women are expected to attend the party which will begin with the serving of dessert at 12:30 p.m. A St. Patrick's Day theme will be carried out in decorations on individual tables. Prizes will be given. Committee members in charge are, from left, Mrs. Jay David, tickets; Mrs. Ed Barnes, chairman, and Mrs. Gordon Hyde, prizes.

Field Sets
Card Party
March 17

Irish green tickets will admit bridge and canasta players to the annual Eugene Field PTA card party Tuesday afternoon at Sierra Madre Woman's Clubhouse, and proceeds from the sale of these tickets will bolster the Field welfare fund.

The St. Patrick's Day theme will be carried out in decorations on individual tables as well as the serving table. Many prizes will be given, according to the party committee.

Care for children of mothers attending will be available at Trinity Presbyterian Church play area.

Mrs. Ed Barnes is general chairman of the affair, with Mrs. Jay David handling the ticket sales, Mrs. Gordon Hyde in charge of prizes and Mrs. Dunbar Burdick planning the decorations.

Theta Alumnae
Meet Today
In San Marino

Pasadena Alumnae Chapter, Kappa Alpha Theta, will hold a dessert meeting today at 1 p.m. in the San Marino home of Mrs. Richard P. McKee, 40 Mill Canyon Rd.

Mrs. Baird Marble, refreshment chairman, and Mrs. Carl M. Slinger, hospitality chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. George Elmendorf, Mrs. Herbert Hamilton and Mrs. Theodore Stearns.

Mrs. Reid R. Briggs, president, will make a report on the sorority's benefit luncheon and fashion show by Irene, held in the Beverly Hilton Hotel last month.

The program will include two brief book reviews, "Buttons in the Back" by Elizabeth Kirtland and "The Return of Lady Bruce" by Nancy Wilson Ross will be reviewed by Mrs. Theodore R. Brobst and Mrs. Alva H. Wilson.

'Beatnik' Is
Theme for Dance Party

A "beatnik" theme is set for the March party of the Hastings Ranch Dance Club next Saturday night, giving members an opportunity to dress the part if they can determine just what "beatniks" are supposed to wear.

A cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Schlueter, 3360 Pirmavera, will precede the dance.

Hosts, in addition to the Schluters, will be Mr. and Mrs. Draper Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buttane and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Rifenburgh.

Guests were Mrs. Karl Dietzel, Mrs. Neal Batterson, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Dan Marsh, Mrs. Ward Clark and Mrs. Harry Pulaski.

UP ON ...

Hastings Hill

Fashion luncheons are curious phenomena. It would be interesting to know what Eve dreamed them up. At mention of a spring fashion show when the weather is chilly, a "girl" feels her attendance is most desirable.

She says of course it's worth the $3 or $5 or $7.50 or whatever the tab because it benefits a worthy cause; it will be nice to have a real lunch instead of a peanut butter sandwich, for a change, and it's the easiest way in the world to shop—just sit still and watch the styles go by.

This has been our experience with fashion luncheons, having ogled roughly $500,000 worth of clothes and eaten through a tubful of chicken salad through the years.

First thing, though, you suddenly find there's nothing fashionable enough in your wardrobe to attend a fashion show, where invariably the guests look like Vogue models. You have to go shopping.

The day arrives. You've gotten yourself together until you look presentable, in your estimation. The ticket says "12 noon" and you break your neck getting the children fed early and the baby sitter instructed. You make it there only 20 minutes late. The "girls" are just standing around chatting and drinking. Roughly an hour later you get your salad and piece of asparagus, and roughly two hours later the show starts.

The piano player or organist to play background music doesn't know it's supposed to be "background." He thinks he's the star of the show. What with the "girls" chatting so gaily, the "background" music, and the well-groomed commentator's voice so well modulated that she blends in beautifully, you can't hear a thing about the styles.

Every once in a while, though, a price, such as "only $175 for this wearable little afternoon dress" may be heard above the din.

You have been sitting so long that you are numb in places. Your hair is beginning to droop in spite of the aspirating spray you glued it down with. Your nose is so shiny you can see it glowing through the corner of your eye. You wish you had visited the powder room earlier, and not only for nose powdering.

The models are smiling and slim, slim, slim. We went to a fashion show Saturday, though, and had a pretty good time. Besides winning two bottles of champagne, we had the most strategic chair in the whole place because without even trying we could see through a crack in a screen where the models were struggling to get dressed.

One reason they are so slim, slim, slim, we report, is that they have on "foundations" like suits of armor. Those shows are bad for them, too.

Anyone for a fashion luncheon under a tree somewhere, where you can wear your shorts, bring your own peanut butter sandwich, benefit nothing and not look at fashions?

Saw Mattie Primack in the village the other day and she is walking along real well on what had been her broken foot. Big news in their family now is the completion of the family room they had been looking forward to.

There are a number of Ranch residents who are missing lots of fun. Don Yacoe is conducting a painting class at Den Benito every Monday evening from 7 until 10 and everyone is welcome and join in the "festivities." The class is sponsored by the adult education program and a great talent is not necessary to be eligible for enrollment. The dress as well as the atmosphere is informal. Ronnie Dumas, Beverly Francis and Jean Babick are among the regulars. Those of you who are interested may visit the class and enroll whenever you choose.

I'm expecting to see pickets out in front of the Gordon Templar home any day now. There's non-union help on the premises. Christine has been broken down and is really swinging a mean paint brush on the outside trim of the house. Won't be too long now before she's qualified for her union card.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Halterman of Cedar City, Utah, are visiting their daughter and family, the Max Goudges. They expect to stay in the Ranch 'til the weather "thaws" in their home town.

Speaking of the Goudges, since last Friday was a holiday for the kids, while their hard-working teachers attended institute and Cynthia Howe was having a birthday, Pat loaded her car with some of Penny's and Cynthia's friends and took them all to Disneyland. The merry group included Gail Templar, Lynn Morris, Mary Lou Worth, Kathleen Galbraith, Barbara Allen, Pam Kinkade, Rozann Richards and Joyce Goudge.

Arlynn and Paul Kaponya returned home last Saturday following a 10-day business and pleasure trip in New York City and Boston. They were fortunate enough to "hitch a ride," going east, on the new jet plane. How-

Don Benito
PTA Plans
Meeting

Miss Dorothea Fry, assistant dean extended day, Pasadena City College, will be the featured speaker at the regular monthly PTA meeting at Don Benito on Wednesday, March 18, at 8 p.m., in the auditorium.

Her lecture, "Developing Your Child's Potential," will stress the parents' role in the education of the child. A "buzz" session will follow, in which the participating audience will break up into several sections under selected leaders for a short small-group discussion period. Each group will then report back, and Miss Fry will synthesize this into a conclusion. Carl Shafer, parent education chairman, is in charge of this part of the program.

Election of new PTA officers for the coming year also will take place during this meeting.

Hostesses for the evening will be second-grade room mothers.

The national Golden Jubilee Conservation project, in celebration of the founding, will have the theme, "The World Around Her." Mrs. Lou B. Pasadena
League Plans
Dinner Dance

From the ornate fountain sparkling in the foyer to the crystal chandeliers overhead, the setting will be reminiscent of the colorful days of Lillian Russell when the Pasadena Junior League presents its dinner dance on March 13.

Sponsored by the Players Committee, the invitational black tie affair at the Huntington-Sheraton serves as an exclamation point to a season of hard, gratifying work by the committee.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Shirley Ward Jr., the Players have just completed a tour of elder citizens' homes and clubs where they have presented their annual dramatic offering. This year an old-fashioned melodrama, "Lily of Tombstone" or "The Triumph of Virtue," has entertained its audiences just as it is sure to entertain its final audience at the league party.

Guests will dance to the music of Reggy Valencia and will be entertained by his strolling guitarist during the cocktail hour.

Among the league members hosting tables are the M. Raymond Hesters, the Hugh V. Pentons, the Howard W. Wright Jr., the John Shirley Ward Sr., the Eugene Metcalfe, the George B. Swaynes, the Calvin Goodriches, the David Wilsons, the Thomas Wolfes, the Robert T. Andrews and the Donald A. McGilrays.

"Friend or cheapskate?"

Garden Notes . . .

Patience Top Requisite In Japanese Landscaping

Of all things from the mysterious East, none so mystifies the occidental as the Japanese art of landscape design. The restrained magnificence, the grace, the attention to minutest detail lend to the Japanese landscape a feeling that every twig is in place—which indeed it often is.

It takes more patience than most of us will ever have to achieve this—not to mention an understanding of the significance behind it. But it is possible, through careful selection of material to have an oriental accent or two.

ONE SECRET is in achieving the proper scale. This calls for a good amount of low growing or dwarf stock in combination with a few taller shrubs and trees to emphasize the dimension. It calls, too, for a heavy hand with pruning shears to keep some of the material in a dwarf-like state.

Following is a sampling of material available for the proper effect. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests you take it as a starter and build your oriental garden around it.

Any consideration of Japanese gardens will necessarily include the Dwarf Japanese Maples as an integral part. You have a choice of the regular dwarf with green leaves or the red Blood-Leaf and Laceleaf varieties. All three are recommended.

Japanese Black Pine can stand a good amount of shaping or can be grown in a sunken container to keep it root-bound and small in scale.

AZALEAS AND Camellias are both important factors. Dwarf Bamboo and Golden Bamboo can be widely used, and Heavenly Bamboo can be used for accent. Flowering Cherries and deciduous Magnolias should definitely be included. Taller trees that fit the oriental scheme are Ginkgo and Sweet Gum.

Experiment is what it takes—with plants and with rock and water. Your garden may not rival the Emperor's Palace, but it will be pleasant nonetheless.

Grant Given Area Center

A U.S. Public Health Service grant of $5,740 for use in equipping health research facilities has been awarded the Pasadena Foundation for Medical Research, it was announced by Philip S. Fogg, Foundation president.

He also has traveled in South America and Africa.

The tour will begin at the garden of Mr. and Mrs. J. P.

Gruettner, 557 S. Madre Ave., Pasadena. A pattern of restfulness is set with spacious lawns beneath pines and oaks which serves as a background for an unusual lake-styled pool with waterfall and bridge. Landscape architect, W. Bennett Covert, A.L.L.A.

GARDEN SUPERVISOR will be Mrs. Allen Harper with assistants Mmes. Grant Robinson, Horace Alder, Mel-drim Burrill and E. W. Naess.

Mrs. Jack Jordan is the supervisor and Mmes. A. W. Hollenbeck, James A. Roberts, Brooks Morris and Herbert G. Hargraves will assist.

Designed for privacy, intimacy and ease of maintenance, with oriental planting and portable planter boxes, the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. Graham, 2390 Lombardy Rd., San Marino, will be the third garden. Mrs. C. A. Getschine has been appointed supervisor with hostesses Mmes. C. H. Lillie, James Young, Howard Watson and Russell B. Jarvis.

The last garden of this tour will be that of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth T. Norris, 1155 Avondale Rd., San Marino. Overhaul In Paradise—Cove, That Is

By Al Miyadi

PARADISE REVISITED—Last week, I took a peek at Paradise—Paradise Cove, that is.

Until two years ago, the Cove had never quite lived up to its name.

It was nice enough in an isolated way, but the fishing was never exceptional. A usual day's catch consisted primarily of bottom fish with an occasional halibut and a calico bass thrown in.

A thousand years ago, the Digger Indians called Paradise their home. Their cemetery is located atop a hillside at the Cove. Skeletons and Indian trinkets still are found occasionally throughout the area.

Now, of course, the picture is radically different.

Two years ago, the fishing took a spectacular upturn, and Cove regulars shook their heads in disbelief as incredibly huge schools of white sea bass, yellowtail, barracuda, and bonito claimed the nearby kelp beds as their own.

How long the fishing will last, no one knows, least of all owner Joe Morris.

GAMBLER IN PARADISE—But Morris is gambling. He's gambling on the record of the last two years and what the experts have told him. And the experts have told him the fishing will last another 20 years due to the warm water cycle.

As a result, he is pouring thousands of dollars into his venture.

Last year he even gave nature a nudge; with the aid of the DGF but at his own expense, he shoved into the ocean some 500 car junks in the hope that new fishing grounds might be thereby created. Similar experiments off the Louisiana coast have already proved successful.

Last year he spent $30,000 on a new parking lot. That lot is being further expanded. The pier is undergoing a complete overhauling; a new restaurant is being built, so is a new tackle and bait shop.

Last week, Morris took possession of 100 brand new Johnson outboard motors to add to his already considerable skiff rental fleet.

Both day boats are now radar equipped. And work is being rushed to complete the rebuilding on the barge for the March 15 opening. Last year, the barge was one of the dirtiest on the coast.

In addition to Jack Ward, who skips the big and fancy Gentlemen, Morris persuaded Dutch Snyder, who perhaps is the top skipper on the coast, to take over the Cove's pride and joy, the Betty-O.

GREENHORN IN PARADISE—Morris is a newcomer to the business. His background is largely one of engineering and in furniture manufacturing. Yet, within the quick span of two years, he has won begrudging respect from competing operators as a shrewd, tough bargainer. He is only 54, or so he says.

But he is quick to admit: "They took me good the first year. But I remembered every swindle and every swindler. I'm still learning. Last year I made fewer mistakes. This year there won't be any."

To be blunt about it, despite the outpouring of money, Paradise Cove still has a long way to go. Its reputation is clouded. Last year the small boat owners, and fishermen, too, cried to the heavens about the service—it was that lousy.

Its reputation would have been even blacker except for the superlative public relations job of their then PR man, Bill Beebe, now a reporter for the Los Angeles Mirror-News.

TWO FOR ONE... It finally happened: two small cars shared a single parking meter space at Jacksonville Beach, Fla., but officer Bud Reed Jr. doesn't like "double parking."

Bite of Pajaroello Tick Painful but Not Toxic

By Roy O. Gilbert, M.D., L.A. County Health Officer

Considering the scant number of pajaroello ticks that inhabit Los Angeles County, more publicity has been given to them than is warranted and, unfortunately, much of this publicity consisted of misinformation.

Largely because of alarming news reports concerning the pajaroello and its prevalence in the Newhall-Saugus area a few months ago, an intensive survey of the tick population has been made and has resulted in the finding of less than a dozen pajaroellos. It therefore seems that the apprehension felt about them is somewhat unnecessary.

ALTHOUGH the pajaroello tick is native to Mexico, it has been found in the mountainous regions of central California since the turn of the 20th century. About 1941 it was observed in the foothills of the Newhall area and later around Malibu and in the Los Angeles National Forest. This being so, it is hardly a newcomer to the area as was reported.

Formerly, the tick was found only in the litter that accumulated under oak trees. Recently, however, it has been observed under pines and also around chaparral plants, which are low-growing shrubs found in the foothill area of Los Angeles County. A short time ago, some were seen at altitudes as high as 6,000 feet, particularly in the Big Pines area. However, these were so few in number that their presence is not considered of much significance.

Like most ticks, the pajaroello is shaped somewhat like the sole of a shoe. It may reach half an inch in length and is brownish-gray in color with a bark-like, mottled, leathery back. When engorged, it looks very much like a bean.

The person or animal on which the tick feeds is generally not aware of what is going on until the tick is replete with blood and perhaps not even then, as the tick's saliva appears to contain an anesthetizing substance which deadens all feeling in the immediate area of the wound. Generally the tick feeds quickly (5 to 20 minutes) but may stay on the host as long as 4 hours.

INTENSE PAIN and itching around the bite may be felt when the tick is engorged.

There is no specific antidote for the pajaroello tick bite, and treatment usually consists of removing as much of the saliva as possible from the wound. This is done by employing suction for about 3 to 5 minutes, using either the mouth or a suction apparatus. Incision of the tick bite is not recommended.

An antiseptic and a sterile dressing should be applied to the wound to prevent any secondary infection or possible friction that might cause further irritation. To scratch the wound, is to ask for trouble. If local treatment is ineffective medical advice should be obtained. However, it is emphasized that, as a rule, the condition clears up by itself in from 4 to 6 weeks.

IN CASES where the tick is observed fastened on the body, it should be removed with care. The use of heat, hot water, or vaseline is sometimes effective in causing it to drop off.

The tick is a slow-mover, and it is usually only when a person is either resting or sleeping in the tick's habitat that it has sufficient time to fasten itself on the host. Care should therefore be taken when going into tick-infested areas. In addition to boots, clothing should be worn that is snug-fitting around the ankles, wrists and neck.

Sure! But fly 'em safely!

Here's how—explains Reddy Kilowatt

1. Fly kites in an open field, away from electric power lines and other overhead obstructions.
2. Be sure string is perfectly dry.
3. Never use wire, tinsel or metallic string.
4. If the kite catches in a power line, let go immediately.
